Trustees Adopt Vital Ordinances

Ordinance No. 54, known as the City Zoning Ordinance, recommended to the board of trustees by the city planning commission, was passed to print last Tuesday evening. Unless held up by a referendum or legal action it will be in full effect thirty days after passage.

The vote in favor of passage was four to one, as follows: Ayes—Trustees Maxwell, Reardon, Parkes, Newberry; Nay—Trustee Kibbler.

Explaining his vote Trustee Reardon said: "There is so much divergence of opinion as to the merits and demerits of this proposition that I will vote for its adoption, so that the people may invoke the referendum." Trustee Kibbler said: "I believe that if we take a little more time in this matter the differences can be adjusted. I therefore vote No."

Preceding the adoption of the ordinance there was plenty of oratory, questions, telegram reading and letter writing. George M. Dorwart, representing the opposition, talked long and earnestly and concluded by presenting a petition bearing the names of 867 citizens and residents who are opposed to the ordinance.

Trustee Newberry, moving to adopt the ordinance, stated that two years ago three citizens were elected to the board of trustees on a platform which called for the very things that the proposed ordinance provided, and that he believed, should the referendum be invoked, a large majority would be given for zoning.

At this point someone in the audience said something about "spite fences," and knowing looks were exchanged.

The business license ordinance, which has been hanging fire for several months, was finally adopted by a vote of three to two. This matter also brought out considerable discussion and two anti petitions. In this connection it was stated that the ordinance would produce over $1200 a year.

In a brief discussion of the ordinance between Argyll Campbell and Henry Larouette, the former remarked, "I am taxed." Larouette replied, "Then the ordinance must be all right."

Dr. Alfred E. Burton, on behalf of the city planning commission, recommended to the board of trustees the purchase by the city of Block 78 for park and civic purposes. This is the property belonging to Miss S. E. Chandler, which at the last meeting of the board was taken out of the residence section of the proposed zoning plan and placed in the business section. No action was taken.

In the sewer matter, a motion was carried to the effect that the C. E. Grunsky company, engineers, be employed to make a survey of existing sanitary conditions in Carmel, at an expense of $500—provided such action is lawful without asking for bids. The matter is in the hands of the city attorney.

The complete text of the two new ordinances will be published in next week's Pine Cone.

While in San Francisco this week, where her paintings are on exhibition at the Fairmont Hotel, Mrs. Roberta B. Thudichum will take part in the meeting of the League of American Pen Women. She will read two of her poems—"Sunset on Carmel Bay" and "Night at the Highlands"—to represent the two forms of gesture, the horizontal of repose and the spiral of life motion. She will be the guest of Mrs. Frederick H. Colburn, president of the club.

Lyrics of Lobos

By Clinton
Scollard

I
I heard old Lobos storming in the night
Through all its clefts and caverns; and the sound
Swept from the craggy crests and deeps profound
Up to the stars within the zenith height.
What a mad tumult! Waves with fangs of white
Gnawed at the rocky bases; bound on bound
Leaped up the cliff sides to the lofty ground
Where the gaunt cypress trees defied their might.

I heard old Lobos storming, hurling wide
Its trumpet of defiance to the seas;
Daring them on, and flinging back their roar;
Above in calm looked down the Pleiades;
Aloft, Orion with majestic stride
Moved on far over that wild line of shore.

II.
In the mad midday tempest came a lull;
The sun flamed out and touched with slanting gold
The white wings of a gull.
The sea that had been gray and stark and cold
Shimmered with silver, surge on sweeping surge
Radiantly aureoled.

And all the wide horizon seemed to merge
In dancing hues; a ship with high bright hull
Poised on the gleaming verge.
Calm after storm—a scene how beautiful!
As on the restless ocean of our life
Peace after strife;
In the mad midday tempest came a lull.

III.
The breakers cream, the breakers comb,
Where Lobos lifts its massive wall;
It seems to be the haunt and home
Of an unrest perpetual.
Around the rampart's beetling verge,
Above the jagged reach of shore,
The great winds sound a vibrant dirge
Forever and forevermore.

Now low the music dips and dies
In weird and wailing undertones,
And now it swells and mounts the skies
As with despairing seamen's moans.
One who from Lobos fronts the seas,
One who from Lobos harks and hears,
Will have wild haunting memories
Through the succession of his years.

IV.
Who has not looked on Lobos has not seen
Nature in tragic majesty of mien.
Who has not trod on Lobos has not known
The face of Wonder intimately shown.
Who has not stood on Lobos lingeringly
Has never felt the passion of the sea.
Dawn—noon—eve—midnight—the diurnal law;
And upon Lobos an eternal awe!

County Officials to Meet on Peninsula

The annual convention of the county auditors and tax collectors is scheduled to take place at Del Monte on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, February 11, 12 and 13.

The Monterey county officials will be hosts of the occasion. Definite plans for the business meetings and entertainment of the attendants are now being made.

The object of these meetings is the betterment of the laws and usages of the county in their dealings with the public. Each one of the officers attending this convention becomes practically an expert in the work of his department in county affairs, and it is the purpose of these meetings to discuss and recommend to the legislature changes in the existing laws insofar as they relate to these offices.

These officers are the trusted employees of the counties and, as such, are working at these meetings for their employers. When the public feel a need for these officers to take a business standpoint, to discuss those matters that promote their individual welfare and to help enact legislation that affects their line of work, they will volunteer any service that will make the convention the most successful one ever held.

Would Keep Carmel a City of Homes

The following letter concerning city zoning was read at the trustees' meeting last Tuesday evening:

To the Honorable

The Board of Trustees of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea.

Intelligent action on the zoning ordinance must be based on a consideration of the purpose for which Carmel exists. That purpose, no one will deny, is primarily to provide comfortable and attractive individual homes in an unspoiled natural setting.

Happily, Carmel is still unspoiled. It possesses natural features that provide ideal home surroundings; it is still more fortunate in the absence of the so-called "attractions" and commercialized amusements that have ruined other California seaside towns.

Why is it that a hundred new homes are built in Carmel each year, that a hundred new families become patrons of Carmel merchants, while neighboring coast towns stand still? Why do those who come to Carmel become permanent residents or return year after year, while other seaside places have become, so to speak, "one night stands"? It is because Carmel has not sold her birthright for a mess of pottage. Here is the one beach on all the coast which remains as God made it. As yet it has no amusement pier, no boardwalk, no shooting galleries or dance halls, no tent city, no beach hotel.

The proposed zoning ordinance is designed to prevent the commercialization of the beach and the other natural features of Carmel which are her chief assets; it protects the homes of Carmel from crowding and from private exploitation; it provides for an orderly and centralized business section and for a hotel and apartment zone large enough to care for any possible growth in that direction. It should have the support of every home and property owner, as well as every business man of the town.

Respectfully submitted,
DUNCAN McDUFFIE.

The January number of "Web Acorn," publication of the pupils of Forest Hill School, is out. It is late this month, owing to the holiday vacation. Original stories, jokes, puzzles and illustrations make the number very interesting.

BUILDING NEWS

Work on the Fenner house in South Carmel is proceeding rapidly. Contractor F. A. Lange will turn over the house shortly.

Percy Parkes is about to start construction of the McEldowney house on Junipero street.

The fire damaged home of Allen Griffin is in the hands of Contractor L. E. Gottfried. New floors are being put in and other sections of the house are being entirely renewed.

M. J. Murphy has his force of workmen divided into several units in various parts of town. The outstanding job just now is the Kuster building at Ocean avenue and Monte Verde street.

Following work is being done by Contractor L. E. Gottfried:

Just completed three-room bungalow for Dr. Peake, at Camino Real and Eleventh.

Work on the Golden Bough theater will be resumed next week.

Residence for Mrs. Etha Fox, at Carmelo and Sixth, is well under way. Five-room bungalow, shales outside, interior plastered, with built-in garage.

Concrete work on the Kenney residence, inside the lower gate at Pebble Beach, is finished, the superstructure is well under way and rock work will start next week. This will be one of the most imposing and beautiful homes in the Pebble Beach area. Among its special features will be an ice-making plant and built-in electric stove. The architecture is Spanish, with chalk rock exterior and tile roof. Mr. Gottfried is the designer.

With the arrival here of Mr. and Mrs. Charles K. Van Riper, the Abalone baseball league will shortly begin a schedule of games. There was a practice game last Sunday and the teams will cavort again tomorrow.

YOUR FUTURE

Make It What You Will

LET YOUR MONEY WORK FOR YOU

Why not start a savings account today for yourself or some member of your family. A few dollars placed now to the account of one of your children will assume large proportions while the child is growing up. We pay four per cent on savings deposits.

A man's future, the future happiness of his family depends on the attitude the head of the house assumes toward the banking accommodations of his home bank. A little saved today means, not only a feeling of independence, but promotes a certain respect with bank officials which may be used to good advantage in the event of financial needs and the establishment of credit for the upbuilding of business integrity.

Your future is bound up with the future of your bank and community and neither can long exist without the good will and fellowship of the other. Make this bank your friend. Take its officers into your confidence and work with them to your mutual advantage. Make this your home bank.

Motor Vehicle Division Faces Its Largest Task

You've seen green numbers on autos now.

The old black and white license plates will be replaced with the new tags by California's million motorists from now on.

Twenty district branches of the State Automobile Association will distribute the license plates to members. The registration period ends March 1, during which six weeks period the State Motor Vehicle Division faces the greatest task of its existence.

Adequate clerical force is being provided to handle the gigantic task so there will be no waiting nor confusion nor delay. But here, according to George Grant, manager of the touring bureau of the Auto Association, are some Do's and Don'ts:

Bring your 1923 certificate, and be sure the data on it is correct.

Be sure the year, model, type and engine number of your car are correctly shown.

If you register a commercial car, be sure to have a weight certificate from a public weigher.

Also for commercial car, type of tire equipment must be shown.

And when you've got your new certificate put it in the car and your ownership certificate in a safe or safe deposit box.

Under the new California vehicle act, two certificates are issued this year—registration and ownership.

Photographer Helps

Photographer L. S. Slevin and C. J. Arne recently returned from King City, where they went to take pictures of the old bridge in order that photographic records may be preserved before it is torn down.

The bridge, according to the sign on it, was built by the California Bridge Company of Oakland, California, in 1888, and one of the supervisors, who was concerned in building it, was T. J. Field, well known banker. The new concrete bridge is a fine piece of work and at night is illuminated its entire length by electric lights.

Incidentally, Slevin and Arne stopped at Paraiso Springs for a plunge in the hot soda water. There they found the orange trees laden with delicious, ripe oranges. This resort is closed at present. They report the country extremely dry and cattle along the line being fed with hay. The suggestion is made that the level fields below Soledad would be idea for baseball grounds and there would be no danger of the game being called off on account of rain.

Announcement is made by Congressman Arthur Free of this district that a competitive examination for appointment of cadets and cadet engineers is scheduled, commencing April 7. For further information write the Commandant, U. S. Coast Guard, Washington, D. C.

Screen Version of Last Novel Satisfies Her

It is a rare thing, apparently, for a novelist to be satisfied with the screen version of his or her novel. But Mrs. Gertrude Atherton, whose last novel, "Black Oxen," has been one of the "best seller" sensations of the year, expresses herself as entirely satisfied with the screen version of her novel.

"When I finished 'Black Oxen' I did not see a motion picture in it," said Mrs. Atherton, "but the motion picture people wanted it, and my agent advised me to let them have it. But I did not expect that they would be able to make much of it."

"I was greatly disappointed to see what a good picture it made. The story has been followed a great deal more closely than a novel is usually followed. I have had other novels made into motion pictures, but I never was satisfied with them. 'Black Oxen,' however, satisfies me completely."

He Does Not Agree With Mary

"Do we need a brand new religion?" That is the question propounded and discussed in a recent number of the Carmel Pine Cone. Mary Austin, a noted student of social institutions, etc.

Replying, a writer in a Pennsylvania paper says: "Our only comment is that the world does not need a brand new religion, but the more general practice of the one we have—the Christian religion. There is no other religion, and there can be none other that will save souls and maintain our civilization of justice and equality. It is true there are men and women who believe in Christ as a book or a story, and Christianity as a system, but who practice commercialism on any plan that will insure worldly gain, or stoop to defamation out of low-browed malevolence. That, however, is not the fault of Christianity."

He Has Different Friends Now

Jeffrey Farnol, noted English novelist, is revisiting his old haunts in New York. Farnol, who is married to an American woman, came to this country twenty years ago, penniless. He tells vividly of his struggles to earn a living for himself and his wife. He painted scenery for theaters when his writing was not successful. He was surrounded by gunmen and thugs, many of whom have gone to the chair, and he claims that they opened their hearts and purses to him when he saved their leader.

The Spelling of "God"

A remarkable fact regarding the name of God is that it is spelled with four letters in most of the languages of civilized peoples. In Latin it is Deus; Greek, Zeus; Hebrew, Adonai, which has but four letters in that language; Sanskrit, Aditi; Arabic, Alla; Persian, Syra; Tartarian, Idga; Egyptian, Aum or Zeut; East Indian, Esri or Zeni; Japanese, Zain; Turkish, Addi; Scandinavian, Odin; Croatian, Doga; Dalmatian, Rogti; Tyrrhenian, Eher; Etrurian, Chur; Margarian, Oese; German, Gott; French, Dieu; Spanish, Dios; Peruvian, Lian.

SEE CARMEL FIRST

You who have lived here two, five, ten years, do you know Carmel? If you are like a great many, you do not. No matter in what section of the city your home may be, each time when you go out you probably travel over the same route. Vary your route. You will be surprised. Attractive new homes have been built; new gardens laid out, the trees have grown and spread.

If you must go over the old route, take a day off. Wander up one street and down another. Then when you speak of Carmel you will know of your own knowledge how beautiful it really is.

It is often a fact that the visitor here for a few days or weeks knows more of the beauty of Carmel than does the old resident.

ALL TOGETHER: "AMEN!"

It is very evident that the entire country is vigorously in favor of lower taxes. The Mellon plan to reduce taxes, we believe, will be welcomed by voters of all parties. We all want lower taxes.

The Washington Post says: "So long as the people's living is pinched because of excessive taxes they will demand relief."

Considering the matter from the standpoint of those who advocate the passage of a bonus bill, the Richmond, Va., Times Dispatch says that "tax reduction will mean a bonus for everybody, including the man who served in the war with Germany. The single person who now pays $40 a year on a net income of $2000 will pay, under the Mellon plan, $22.50, realizing a yearly bonus of $17.50. That would be a saving to millions of people, spinning happiness and prosperity to a great portion of our population."

If the American people wish tax reductions they must curb their demands for tax expenditures and vote for men and measures pledged to business administration and economy in public affairs. Unless they do this, they will have no one but themselves to blame if their tax burden is double its present figure five or ten years hence.

Saving Money

The old saying, "Money Saved is Money Earned" is even more true today than when it was first uttered.

And the young man or woman who would like to get ahead in the world, who wants to be financially independent at some time in life, can find no more certain way to accomplish it than to start a Savings Account with this Bank—and start it NOW.

The first deposit may be any amount you wish to make it, the big thing is to start. We will be glad to talk this matter over with you at your convenience.

Germ of Knowledge for Germ of the Oak

There was once an old oak tree that, like the "old woman who lived in a shoe," had a great many children. They were known as acorns; and, if you will look in Webster's Dictionary, which is a big, fat book just full of interesting things, you will find that the word acorn is a sort of combination of oak and corn. So the word means the corn of the oak.

Now, when these acorn children arrived at school age, they were sent every evening to night school. They could not possibly attend day school, because the owls of the forest, being so wise, were the teachers, and of course you know that the owls cannot see to read the Forest Elementary Arithmetic, Speller, or Reader in the daytime. But the owls were excellent teachers, and the little people of the forest profited much by their wisdom.

It happened that there were 26 acorns which arrived at school age at the same time, and, when Professor Owl found them seated not tell one from the other. They were just like triplets, only more. You might have called them twenty-sixlets. Their complexions and weight and height were identical; and what was still more puzzling to poor Professor Owl was that they all answered to the name of Acorn. When he said, "Acorn," the whole 26 would rise and recite in chorus, and he could never possibly discover which of them knew their lessons and which did not. He scratched his wise old head, and studied his books of knowledge in the library, looking over the dictionary, which was his wise old habit, he noticed that there are 26 letters, which are called the alphabet. Twenty-six letters—twenty-six acorns. "Aha!" exclaimed Professor Owl.

The next morning he gave each of the acorns a new name, beginning thus: Acorn, Bcorn, Ccorn, Dcorn, and so on all the way to Xcorn, Ycorn, Zcorn. This plan was a great success, and Professor Owl was able to mark all the acorns' report cards in a truly intelligent manner. These reports were given out every 10 weeks, and the professor soon discovered that it would be necessary to place Xcorn, Ycorn and Zcorn in the next grade, because they were so far ahead of their little brothers and sisters.

Professor Hoot-owl was the teacher of the second grade. When he called the roll and Xcorn, Ycorn and Zcorn did not respond when he asked if the acorns were present, he was somewhat annoyed.

"What is your name, if not Acorn?" he demanded.

"Xcorn."
"Ycorn!"
"Zcorn!"

The three brothers responded thus, one after another, and they did hope their teacher would give them an opportunity to explain, for they did not wish him to think they were impudent. You see they were really well-behaved, for their dear mother oak had often counseled them to remember that "great oaks from little acorns grow."

Just at this moment in walked—who do you think—the principal of the Forest Night School. His name was Professor Chanticleer, and he had been chosen for this position, because he always woke in time to notify the owl teachers that dawn was approaching and school closing time had arrived.

He saw Professor Hoot-owl's perplexity and exclaimed: "My dear professor, there were 26 of those acorn children in the first grade, and the teacher was compelled to give each a different name, so he chose the letters of the alphabet. And the best part of it is that they never could recite the alphabet before, but now they all know it, and can easily find any word in the dictionaries and encyclopedias; so they are becoming very wise, indeed, very wise."

Just then the sun peeked over the edge of the forest. "Cockadoodle doo!" cried Chanticleer. "School is closed!" The owl teacher closed his eyes, and the little acorns went home to play all day in the shade of their dear mother oak.

Diamonds Not Indestructible

It is a common error to regard the diamond as being indestructible. Many fine gems have been lost to the world because of an ancient custom of testing them with hammers, it being supposed that if the diamond were genuine it could not be crushed. As a matter of fact some diamonds were split in a package dropped into a mail chute, a few years ago. A number of valuable gems were also destroyed when a bullet was shot through a package which contained a diamond necklace.

Double Bill is Next Attraction at A. & C.

The next attraction at the Arts and Crafts theater will be a double bill, presented on February 22d and 23rd, for which rehearsals are now under way. The two plays have been carefully chosen that the serie intensity of one should be offset by the simple human appeal of the other.

The Monkey's Paw, dramatized by Lewis N. Parker, from W. W. Jacobs' short story of the same name, will be produced by Arthur Cyril, and Top o' Me Thumb, by Frederick Penn and Richard Pryce, a little play in which Maud Adams used to delight the hearts of her admirers, will be produced by Edward G. City Zoning Catechism

The Carmel City Planning Commission, realizing that certain misapprehensions exist regarding the zoning ordinance, here inaugurates a series of questions and answers, which will be continued from week to week.

Question—If the zoning ordinance stands, shall I lose my right to continue my business in its present location if my building is in the residential zone?

Answer—Certainly not. The ordinance deals only with future developments.

Question—If the zoning ordinance stands, can I rent rooms or take boarders in my own house in the residential zone?

Answer—Certainly you can. The ordinance only relates to the construction of new hotels or apartment houses.

Just two things have made it possible for us to give you this 20% reduction on Tuxedo:

1. A reduction in the cost of Kentucky Burley tobacco and in package materials, as well.
2. The consolidation of three of our big plants into one. (Mr. Ford may not be in the tobacco business but he is right about consolidation.)

You know that it is the desire and policy of The American Tobacco Co. to extend to its customers the maximum of service.

Reducing the price of a great favorite like Tuxedo is our idea of delivering this service.

Tuxedo is always FRESH. Every package is—

Many Have Appendicitis Don't Know It

Much so-called stomach trouble is really chronic appendicitis. This can often be relieved by simple buckthorn bark, etc., as mixed in Adlerika. Most medicines act only on lower bowel but Adlerika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel, and relieves all cases of poisoning. Bring it to your system. Excellent for obstinate constipation. Carmel-by-the-Sea Pharmacy.

Greatcoats and Great Coats

Any artisan can produce a Greatcoat, so-called; but it takes an artist to create a great coat. Hand Tailoring gives our fleecy ulsters the true London swank and makes them feel light and soft as a glove, instead of harsh and heavy.

What Type of Suit Buyer Are You?

We've sold thousands of suits—some to men who didn't care how much they paid as long as they got what they wanted—but 95 per cent of our business is with men who not only know what they want, but how much they can afford to spend.

That's our long suit—fitting the gray matter of your mind with the greenbacks of your appropriation.
